

Jack Francioni School WEEKLY BULLETIN

November 27- December 1, 2017

"Students with disabilities who spend more time in general education classes tend to be absent fewer days from school, are closer to grade level in their reading and mathematics abilities, and have higher test scores in those areas than students who spend less time in general education courses, irrespective of other differences between the two groups." -Blackorby, J; Harvard Graduate School of Education

Kudos to our Future Teachers, for all their hard work.

Kudos to all support staff that were able to translate for Parent/teacher Conferences.

Kudos to Mr. & Mrs. Freeman for fixing the laminating machine.

Wishing everyone a restful, relaxing, refreshing week of giving thanks with family and friends.

Happy Thanksgiving

Volunteers

The PTO volunteers supported the school with the semi-annual Scholastic bookfair. A very special thanks to: Juliana Garcia, Marisol Hernandez, Maritza Juarez, Leno Arredondo, Maria Valdez, Flor and Roxy Argueta

LCAP Goal- Proficiency For ALL

We had successful parent-teacher conferences this week. Students were dismissed at 1 o'clock; teachers and parents had ample time for conferences. Teachers discussed: student attendance, homework, grades, assessment results, and school wide behavior expectations.

Student Council

Recently, the 4th 5th and 6th graders interested in Student Council leadership prepared and delivered outstanding campaign speeches to the student body.

Here is a Campaign Speech for President.

Here is a speech from Ashly Banuelos.

Hi, my name is Ashly Banuelos and I'm running for student council president. I feel I would be a good President, because I will have a respectful, responsible attitude at all costs no matter what. I will try to prevent bullying in every way. I am able to, and I have parents that are supporting me 100 percent. I will work with all school officials, and students. Remember keep calm and vote me for President. Together we can accomplish great things. May the best candidate win.

PBIS

Our regularly scheduled monthly Roar Store provides an opportunity for students to spend the Lion Bucks they have earned Lion Bucks for demonstrating school wide expectations.

Upcoming "Spirit Days" - Pajama Day will be next Friday, December 1.
